

20 Years of Impact

GLOBAL CENTER

20 YEAR
ANNIVERSARY

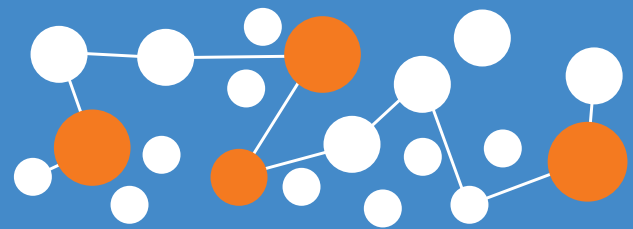

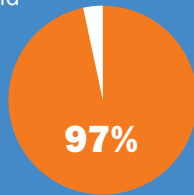

Since 2004, the Global Center on Cooperative Security has been supporting communities to reduce political violence and save lives, reforming institutions to protect human rights, and shaping domestic and international security policies to achieve a just and secure world.

We are relied upon as a trusted collaborator and effective implementer of peace and security programming, with

97%

of our donors reinvesting in our work.

We engaged over

100,000

policymakers, practitioners, and other stakeholders to advance collaborative, human rights-centered responses to peace and security challenges.

We implemented more than $60 million

in grant funding across 300 programs in over 60 countries, working with governments, international organizations, the private sector, and community groups.

We partnered with 1,000s of civil society organizations to build community resilience against violent extremism through small grants and joint programming.

The Global Center on Cooperative Security is an international nongovernmental organization that advances human rights-centered responses to political violence and violent extremism and the injustices that drive them.
